Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Address Delivered Before the Adelphian Society of Greenwood, South Carolina Being constrained to approach the vestibule of the Temple of Science with faltering steps, we would not attempt to conceal the deep emotions of the soul, in essaying to perform the part allotted to us in your annual festival. From a most profound regard for age and experience, we ever feel that youth should keep silence in the presence of superior wisdom. But as every one has a part to act in the grand drama of life, and silver-locked generations pass in quick succession from the stage, leaving in eternal bequest their glorious patrimony of civil and religious liberty; shall it be thought presumptuous, if their sons be found striving to maintain and perpetuate this priceless legacy? Shall it be thought presumptuous, even if I should raise my feeble testimony in behalf of principles, involving the dearest rights of man, and bought with the blood and treasure of an honored ancestry? Certainly not, while there is, a heart to feel, or a soul to love the beautiful, the excellent, and the Divine - certainly not, while there is one drop of freedom s blood coursing the veins of this youthful band, or one glow of maternal beauty upon the fair cheeks of these virgin daughters. Then, to divest myself of all that embarrassment, which self-distrust and inexperience are wont to beget on occasions like the present, permit me to speak without reserve; desiring rather to be profitable, than speculative and beautiful, while I invoke the charity of an indulgent auditory. Standing upon the beetling brow of six thousand years, during a period the most eventful...
